McKane's 'awvers said today that no further legal steps would be taken to save their client until Friday, when Justice Cullen will hear the application for a certificate of reasonable doubt.

In case the certificate of reasonable doubt is refused (which lawyers believe is most likely) McKane will be taken to Sing Sing either Saturday or Monday.

In the meantime his lawyers will make a last effort by applying to the Court for permission to go before another Supreme Court Justice, and apply the second time for the certificate of reasonable doubt.

It is as do that Justice Ingraham, of New York, has promised to hear the second application in case the first is unsuccessful and permission to make the second application is granted.

It leaked out this morning that exjudge Troy and Lawyer Roderick, detending McKane, had a big row immediately after the verdict was rendered and that Mr. Troy had refused to have anything further to do with the case. If Roderick continued as associate counsel.

For this reason, it is said, Col. James was retained in Judge Troy's place. When Judge Troy was seen this morning he affirmed the report, and said he was retained in Judge Troy's place. becile, and did not understand what she was doing when she signed away her property.

The complainant in the action sets forth that on Dec. 15, 1882, Mrs. Strong conveyed to John J. Clark a house in Williamsburg. On Jan. 3, 1883, Clark deeded the property to Demas Strong. Jan. 22, 1885, Mrs. Strong deeded two parcels of property to her daughter, Julia D. Harrs, who transferred them it her father on the same day. Another place of property was transferred to Demas Strong in the same manner or April 24, 1889.

All this property now forms part of Demas Strong's estate. The plaintiff alleges that Demas Strong perpetrated fraud upon his wife and the plaintiff, as one of her helix, and he asks the Court to set the conveyances aside. Interesting developments are expected when the suit is brought to trial.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Suprem 'ourt Judge George F. Yeoman this morning granted an order appointing the Security Trust Company, of this city, reuring Company, whose brewery is lo-ated at 630 West Thirteenth street, New ated at 630 West Thirteenth street, New York City.

An injunction was granted restraining di creditors from pressing their claims. The petitioners are certain small shareholders, who allege that they are being frozen out. They place the assets at 127,000 and the liabilities at 255,000.
They allege that N. B. Abbott, of Brooklyn, and D. I. Coleman, of Albany, are seeking to enforce chattel mortgages aggregating 25,000, which are fraudulent and void, and which the receiver should contest.

Coal and Iron Company made application to the Court to-day for authority to Issue $5,000,000 of Coal Trust notes, in order to retire a portion of the Company's floating debt, and also asked authority to purchase an additional steam tug and iffteen coal barges.

Messrs Drexel & Co. and Brown Bros. & Co. have agreed to purchase one-half of the proposed issue at the rate of $71-2 per cent. of their value, and John Lowber Welsh has agreed to take an interest in said purchase of $250,000.

The receivers believe that If this arrangement is carried into effect it will prove highly advantageous to the Reading Company. The tug and barges are to be used for the transportation of coal to New England points.

The petitioners were referred to George L. Crawford, master.

The funeral of James Foley, one of the oldest butchers in Washington Market. New York, will take place from his late residence in Jersey City to-morrow morning.

Foley was a Catholic, but as he had not attended church in fifteen years. Rev. Dr. Seaton, of St. Joseph's Church, would not bury him from the Catholic Church until his relatives brought a letter from Father Ter Woert, in whose parish Foley lived. Father Ter Woert could not give a letter, as Foley was not recognized as a member of the church on account of his long absence.

Mrs. Foley, who is an Episcopalian, then went to Rev. Dr. Warren, pastor of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, and asked him to bury her husband, which he consented to do.
